$300,000 Purchase of Automobiles by the N. & N. Motor Sales Co.

How would you like to receive 300 orders like this every month This is what Overlands branch purchase for 1920

Mr Nink of the N & N Motor Sales Co invited Peter Binn F Neubauer O Lunsver L Meyer and myself to accompany him to Toledo to see the Overland plant and the city itself then drive back a new Overland from machine We accepted and found ourselves Monday evening speeding east on a Pullman leaving in Toledo Tuesday morning We put up at the Waldorf Astoria hotel next to the Overland plant which we inspected then tremendous plant and the buildings which include a fine living quarters all an excellent restaurant admission offices lounging rooms for the visitors and many other attractive features

The Overland people exhibit a series moving pictures of the construction of Overland 4s in a 2 000 mile cross traveling in the West over the rocks and many obstacles as well as a picture showing the car jump over a ditch the times it does and equally as strong

Construction Test

The Overland people have a test plant where cars are made and every day in construction At present they are turning out about 100 cars a day and they are planning the plant as fast as they are able They start a car at the beginning and show that the frame is not only but as the car moves on the frame each side of the frame add a part to it and soon it is a small car low and runs on the road then the car travels through mud holes which is the ground and pulled which shows as the car is driving These tests are the toughest in the world being 100 times as wonderful as the ordinary tests all lined up and towards set Lights all parts the lights there fill them away

The Test

While our party was received courtesy and every attention some of the men in the world Lever Well Are many life We were instructed to drive just over the rough places You no doubt have heard of the springs the rear on this marvelous car and tests with the N & N Motor Sales cars Wonders and have just made in the car we some of the rough places Several times along the road we were warned by other motor machines not to try and go the road as it roads were impassable Very hesitated more than once and the surprise the road was all bad enough that the rough roads we went over was almost thought test of this wonderful little car and what they claimed for it Mr Neal now the wonderful qualities of this car when we were instructed by the day first we never we struck bad spots only the springs etc in instances the wonderful easy riding features of the springs which is a feature of the Overland car

Humbled hills every to climb low gear and higher it to be over bumps that would have put an Indian car running as it is called Well When you wished to climb up hill you did not do this but It just simply went and we were astonished to go

Well we arrived safe and sound in Chicago everything sound and fast think so our little world traveler "The Overland"

Klein Goes With Simmonds Hardware Co.

Arthur Klein who has been associated with the Lake Hardware store on Ashland Ave in past few years has accepted a position on the road with the Simmonds Hardware Co and Arthur will attend to his new duties He leaves a host of good friends who wish him well in his new job

The Newspaper Guy

I see a man pushing his way through the lines
Of cops where the work of the 'firefiends' shines
'The chief?' I inquire—but fireman replies
He's no Why, that's one of those newspaper guys'
I see a man walk through the door of a show
Where great throngs are blocked by the signs S R O
Is this man the star that no ticket he buys?
Star nothin He's one of those newspaper guys
I see a man start on the trail of a crook,
And he scorns the police but brings him to book
Sherlock Holmes? I inquire—some one scornfully cries
'Sherlock H— No he's one of those newspaper guys'
I see a man sit in the seat of the great
And they ask his advice upon matters of state
'A diplomat surely But to my surprise
They tell me he's one of those newspaper guys'
And some day I'll stand by the gates of gold
And see a man pass through unquestioned and bold
'A saint?' I'll ask and St Peter'll reply
No he's only a plain honest newspaper guy

Fall on Ice Proves Fatal

Looking Backward

By M. D. Massie

Seventy-two years ago I had my first ride on a steamboat, the new and beautiful Edward Bates, named for a great legal light of St. Louis that was afterwards President Lincoln's first attorney general From that time on I was an observer of the mighty traffic of the Mississippi, and later knew personally the captains and officers of nearly all the boats of the St Louis and Keokuk line. St Louis furnished the captains that I knew personally John W Malin Harry Brolaski Rufus Ford Bart and Dan Ables Captain Bersie of Alton Captain Alford of Hamburg R Whitledge of Clarksville, Captain Brock of Summer Hill Lyman Scott of Rockport Harry Johnson J W. Gunn and Frank Burnett of Louisiana, Mose Hall of Quincy Dave Asbury of Canton, Mo Neal Cameron and Isaac Matson of Saverton. First clerks John W. Roberts James Roberts and Dick Roberts of Clarksville

Captain Frank Burnett was the most noted of the captains I knew. He was born married and died in Louisiana Mo A river man for nearly seventy years his entire life was devoted to steamboating A few hours before his passing an old river comrade called on him and his question about his last heat was 'How does she handle Jim?' He superintended and aided in the construction of the steamers Alone Effie Dean Mollie McPike and Tom Jasper and was captain of each President Grant appointed him supervising inspector of steam vessels in the fourth district, and he held the position through the administrations of Presidents Grant, Hayes Garfield Arthur and Harrison, and his work was entirely satisfactory and without criticism

Of all the steamboat men all are on the other shore except Captain Harry Brolaski who is said to be living at 84 in Los Angeles All will be remembered for their courtesy and kindness to passengers and shippers in the old golden days of river traffic on the old Father of Waters

Cut Down the High Cost of Living!

Here's One Good Way — A Sensible Way

The much-talked-about high cost of living is not a serious problem—

It Is a Chain of Serious Problems

each link made heavier by our failure to grasp the opportunities to make them lighter.

The approach of a new season is forging another link—the cost of wearing apparel. You have the opportunity to make it lighter by getting a full measure of service out of the clothing you already have.

Your last spring's suit, properly cleaned and pressed, would be good for another season, and would probably look just as well as the one you have been expecting to buy. The same will be true, next fall, of the suit you are wearing now. It can be kept free from moths by being cleaned when you get ready to lay it aside for lighter garments.

This is the solution—a very sensible solution—of one of your high-cost-of-living problems. You can prove it by phoning BLACKSTONE 6400 or PROSPECT 4406.

Bliss on 1920

The solemn bells have tolled again, the old year has departed, and from his bier we turn away downcast and heavy-hearted, for he brought the H. C. L. that left us dazed and dumb, somehow a premonition says the worst is yet to come! A lot of high-toned women in the city by the lake have attacked the H. C. L. and the price of pies and cake, and they'll haggle with the grocer about the price of cheese, but all will wear silk stockings if their legs and ankles freeze! They'll quarrel with the butcher about the price of beef and they'll call the retail merchant a profiteer and thief, and each will try her very best to make someone the goat, as she swells along the street in a high-priced sealskin coat. They'll scold the poor old milkman, whose feed and money's short, if he wants to raise the price of milk a half a cent a quart, and they'll swell with indignation like they had a case of rabies, and say with growing ire that he wants to rob the babies. And then to cool their anger to a cafe they'll repair and each pay forty cents for a chocolate eclaire!

But still we hail the glad New Year and we'll crown him as our king, and we'll jazz around his royal throne and gaily dance and sing, though what he has in store for us we know not, we confess, so we'll do the watchful waiting act and fondly hope and guess. But the candidates for president, it's easy now to tell, will be as thick this summer, as Bolsheviks in hell! And will have a remedy for the turmoil and unrest and each will claim emphatically his remedy's the best, and our course will be obstructed with demagogic junk from Maine to California, they'll fill the air with bunk.

This is the year the old maids love, this one year out of four, when the girl who feels she's stranded on a bleak and barren shore, can choose a mate without reproach and then can boldly woo him and if he falls or hesitates, by thunder, she can sue him! For every maiden in the land, of high or low degree, whatever be her walk in life, has a right to have a he. And nineteen twenty is the year, when she can safely nab him, so, lonely maiden, go right out undaunted now, and nab him!. But I would fain a warning sound: At first be coy and tame, and sneak up on your quarry sly, or you may flush the game. And if you fail to catch a man don't grieve, lament or pout, for ten to one the chances are you're better off without. And when the census is complete it's likely to be found there'll be a shortage of the men—not enough to go around. For they have been dying rapidly in numbers that appal, from filling up their carcasses with denatured alcohol! But why does some fair maiden worth ninety dollars per, so often throw herself away upon some thriftless cur? Why does she tie herself for life to a lazy, worthless clam, some swearing, smoking, shiftless hulk, not worth a tinker's dam!

This month is one to be inscribed on future history's pages, and it will glow in living light through all the coming ages. For on the sixteenth of this month the arid forces score, a drought will set in on that day to last forever more! No more the foaming suds will flow down our parched throats, and nevermore will whisky straights or brandy get our goats. The high ball will no longer warm the cockles of our heart, and how to mix the rich egg nog will soon be a lost art. The tempting julip with its mint will cheer our souls no more, or cocktails lend their merry charm at banquets as of yore. We'll write an epitaph to which we all will point with pride: "On January the sixteenth old Tom and Jerry died." Whatever else may come to pass in all the coming ages, the greatest record ever made on future history's pages, will be the one emblazed this month, upon the earth and sky, and when it's written it will read: "AMERICA IS DRY."—Hillsboro News.

A League for Nursing Education is being formed by trained nurses. Unless the pay of teachers is increased, education will soon need nursing.—Greenville (S. C.) Piedmont.

W. J. Bryan says he was surprised to learn that he was being considered as a Presidential possibility.. But he wasn't more surprised than everybody else.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

The Literary Digest, which showed how to publish a magazine without printers, will confer a favor on thousands of harassed publishers if it will show them how to publish papers without paper.—Greenville (S. C.) Piedmont.

Rube Bernstein's "Bathing Beauties"

A merry revelry of fun and music called "Bathing Beauties" will open the Englewood Theatre next week starting Sunday matinee, March 14th. The show is well equipped with novel stage settings, gorgeous costumes, and wonderful electric effects. Judging from the manifestations of approval all over the country, the engagement here is sure to attract large audiences. The cast selected by Mr. Bernstein includes Lillian Held, prima donna; Cecil Jefferson, ingenue; Helen Lloyd, soubrette; Ray King, Al Flatico, Sid Winters, Jack Hunt and Dudley Farmworth, all artists well known to the patrons, including twenty talented chorus girls who can sing and dance.

"My Irish Cinderella"

The management of the National Theatre is adding another triumph to its long list of successes. Cecil Spooner's new play, "My Irish Cinderella," will be the attraction for the week of March 14th, starting with a Sunday matinee. "My Irish Cinderella" is different from the Irish plays which have been seen in recent years. It tells the story of a little Irish girl, Peggy McNeil, and her adventures in this country and abroad. It has a good, clean and interesting story, and the characters are all human and real. It sparkles with true Celtic wit, and there is no caricature of the Irish race, as is so often seen in so-called Irish plays.

The story reads like the fairy tale of Cinderella, nevertheless it is not a story that was written especially for children. All ages and both sexes can see this play and enjoy every moment of it. Concerning, as it does, Peggy, the poor house brat, portrayed by Miss Iva Shepard, who later proves to be the legitimate heir to millions. The play is well named and Miss Shepard will be seen in an entirely different character than she has yet appeared in.

This is an appropriate St. Patrick's week bill.
